

THE SWIMMING POOL

Bea and Karla were spending the day at Grandma's house. They usually spent every Sunday afternoon [at/ hey/ mob] their grandmother's house after they had gone [yes/ pit/ to] church with their parents. Grandma's house [pave/ was/ car] always so much fun because they [could/ heart/ money] run through the house, make messes, [lure/ cast/ and] play in the living room and [feel/ owe/ she] never reprimanded them.

Karla, the eldest [as/ of/ we] the two sisters, came up with [a/ be/ in] great idea that afternoon. "Why don't [we/ do/ in] go to the store and buy [no/ of/ a] plastic swimming pool to put in [sure/ down/ the] backyard, Grandma?" she asked her grandmother [with/ shot/ get] pleading eyes. "Uncle Joe and Aunt Myrt [poor/ note/ will] be over for lunch soon and [be/ I/ so] know they will help us put [rot/ new/ it] up."

"If that's what you girls [want/ part/ any] to do, then it is fine [money/ with/ side] me," replied Grandma. "Get into the [low/ book/ car] and I will take us to [the/ for/ inn] discount store. I think they have swimming [mean/ pools/ bring] on sale there for twenty dollars. [As/ I/ Do] will buy you new bathing suits, [plug/ too/ was]."

The girls climbed into the car [love/ and/ fats] they were off to the store. [From/ Dirty/ They] decided to get a plastic pool [grew/ yard/ that] came with a kit. The pool [whip/ had/ seed] to be assembled and inflated. Grandma

[was/ bob/ how] not sure whether it would fit [ash/ go/ into] her backyard, but she bought it because [the/ sit/ down] girls liked the frogs and ducks [that/ serve/ heed] were printed on the side of [call/ bit/ the] pool.

When they arrived home, they [son/ saw/ you] that Uncle Joe and Aunt Myrt [how/ were/ care] there and they raced to ask [went/ sure/ them] for assistance in assembling the pool. [It/ Cat/ New] was over one hundred degrees outside [sure/ when/ cab] Uncle Joe started putting together the [crop/ alone/ pool]. After it was put together, Aunt Myrt [spent/ flash/ lucky] the better part of an hour blowing [sty/ it/ win] up. Then she found the garden [wait/ hose/ dye] and filled it up with cool [very/ could/ water].

The girls, who had put on their [life/ new/ and] bathing suits, jumped into the [grow/ wide/ pool]. "Please be careful, girls, because the [easy/ late/ pool] is flimsy and if you push [us/ the/ go] sides too hard it will likely [glass/ burst/ dogs]," warned Uncle Joe. The words had [not/ side/ four] been out of his mouth two minutes [when/ music/ gold] Karla jumped over the side of [once/ cap/ the] pool and the walls came down. Grandma, Uncle Joe, [yes/ back/ and] Aunt Myrt just shook their heads [call/ and/ get] walked inside the house. Karla and Bea [seemed/ jogger/ fleas] to have just as much fun squirting each other [sleep/ with/ door] the hose.
