

Bea and Karla were spending the day at Grandma's house. They usually spent every Sunday afternoon at their grandmother's house after they had gone to church with their parents. Grandma's house was always so much fun, because they could run through the house, make messes, and play in the living room and she never reprimanded them.

Karla, the eldest of the two sisters, came up with a great idea that afternoon. "Why don't we go to the store and buy a plastic swimming pool to put in the backyard, Grandma?" she asked her grandmother with pleading eyes. "Uncle Joe and Aunt Myrtle will be over for lunch soon and I know they will help us put it up."

"If that's what you girls want to do, then it is fine with me," replied Grandma. "Get in the car and I will take us to the discount store. I think they have swimming pools on sale there for twenty dollars. I will buy you new bathing suits, too."

The girls climbed into the car and they were off to the store. They decided to get a plastic pool that came with a kit. The pool had to be assembled and inflated. Grandma was not sure it would fit in her backyard, but she bought it because the girls liked the frogs and ducks that were printed on the side of the pool.

When they arrived home, they saw that Uncle Joe and Aunt Myrtle were there, and they raced to ask them for assistance in assembling the pool. It was over one hundred degrees outside when Uncle Joe started putting together the pool. After it was put together, Aunt Myrtle spent the better part of an hour blowing it up. Then she found the garden hose and filled it up with cool water.

The girls, who had put on their new bathing suits, jumped into the pool. "Please be careful, girls, because the pool is flimsy, and if you push the sides too hard it will likely burst," warned Uncle Joe. The words had not been out of his mouth two minutes when Karla jumped over the side of the pool and the walls came down. Grandma, Uncle Joe, and Aunt Myrtle just shook their heads and walked inside the house. Karla and Bea seemed to be having just as much fun squirting each other with the hose.

Bea and Karla were spending the day at Grandma's house. They	11 usually spent every Sunday afternoon at their grandmother's house	20 after they had gone to church with their parents. Grandma's house was	32 always so much fun, because they could run through the house, make	44 messes, and play in the living room and she never reprimanded them.	56
Karla, the eldest of the two sisters, came up with a great idea that	70 afternoon. "Why don't we go to the store and buy a plastic swimming	83 pool to put in the backyard, Grandma?" she asked her grandmother	94 with pleading eyes. "Uncle Joe and Aunt Myrtle will be over for lunch	107 soon and I know they will help us put it up."	118
"If that's what you girls want to do, then it is fine with me,"	132 replied Grandma. "Get in the car and I will take us to the discount	146 store. I think they have swimming pools on sale there for twenty	158 dollars. I will buy you new bathing suits, too."	167
The girls climbed into the car and they were off to the store.	180
They decided to get a plastic pool that came with a kit. The pool had to	196 be assembled and inflated. Grandma was not sure it would fit in her	209 backyard, but she bought it because the girls liked the frogs and ducks	222
that were printed on the side of the pool.	231
When they arrived home, they saw that Uncle Joe and Aunt	242
Myrtle were there, and they raced to ask them for assistance in	254 assembling the pool. It was over one hundred degrees outside when	265
Uncle Joe started putting together the pool. After it was put together,	277
Aunt Myrtle spent the better part of an hour blowing it up. Then she	291 found the garden hose and filled it up with cool water.	302
The girls, who had put on their new bathing suits, jumped into	314
the pool. "Please be careful, girls, because the pool is flimsy, and if	327 you push the sides too hard it will likely burst," warned Uncle Joe. The 341 words had not been out of his mouth two minutes when Karla jumped 354 over the side of the pool and the walls came down. Grandma, Uncle 367 Joe, and Aunt Myrtle just shook their heads and walked inside the 379 house. Karla and Bea seemed to be having just as much fun squirting 392 each other with the hose. 397