Bowers Star - November 25, 2014

Art teacher, Joseph Vernali, always seizes the opportunity to have his students' artwork shared throughout the school and community! Creating murals and displays of student work throughout the school and involving students in activities such as painting a recycled oil drum which serves as a planter beautifying school grounds are just some of the ways that his students' artwork is enjoyed by the entire community.

He is pictured here with 3rd grader, Edward Braye-Entsiwah, whose artwork was selected from the numerous entries submitted by students at Bowers School to adorn the cover of the newly-produced school song CD, We've Got the Power at Bowers!

Edward and Mr. Vernali are posing in front of a bulletin board where Ed's artwork is displayed as well as that of the finalists who entered the competition.
